CITIZENS START ON RELIEF WORK

Washington Countians Begin Work in Interest of Starving Belgian People

PITTSBURG PLAN PROPOSED

The citizens of Washington county are working enthusiastically to fulfill the pledges of 5,000 sacks of flour or more from this community to be added to Western Pennsylvania's donation to the starving non-combatant poulation in Belgium. The Pittsburg and Western Pennsylvania Committee for Relief in Belgium at its headquarters in Pittsburg is cooperating in every way with the committees for Washington county and the other outside districts. The expenses for the campaign have been subscribed in advance and the people are assured that every penny contributed for the Belgians will be spent for the purpose intended.

In Pittsburg the city has been divided into districts comprising the 348 election precincts. In each of these a chairman has been appointed with a woman chairman assitant who directs the work of young women aides in a house-to-house canvass. In this manner every household in the city will be visited. The same method has been suggested for other communities.

The Pittsburg committee furnishes speakers, literature, lantern slides and motion pictures. The work is being carried on in whirlwind fashion and the climax will be reached next Monday, "Bread Day," which will be observed throughout the western half of the state. It is expected that 200,000 sacks of flour will be contributed.

The native Belgians in this county are rendering valuable assistance in the campaign. In the Monongahela valley region the Belgians of Charleroi, Monongahela, New Eagle and other towns they have done much for their hapless fellow countrymen and are re-organizing for a repetition of their good work.

"THE SHOOTING OF DAN McGREW"

The poem "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" by Robert W. Service, from which the Popular Plays and Players made a motion picture of the same name with Edmund Breese in the title role, reads as follows:

A bunch of the boys were whooping it up in the Malamute saloon;
The kid that handles the music-box was hitting a jag time tune;
Back of the bar, in a solo game, sat Dangerous Dan McGrew,
And watching his luck was his light-o'-love, the lady that's known as Lou.

When out of the night, which was fifty below, and into the din and the glare,
There stumbled a miner fresh from the creeks, dog-dirty and loaded for bear.
He looked like a man with a foot in the grave and scarcely the strength of a louse,
Yet he tilted a poke of dust on the bar, and he called for drinks for the house.

There was none could place the stranger's face, though we searched ourselves for a clue;
But we drank his health, and the last to drink was Dangerous Dan McGrew.

His eyes went rubbering round the room, and he seemed in a kind of daze,
Till at last that old piano fell in the way of his wandering gaze.
The rag-time kid was having a drink; there was no one else on the stool
So the stranger stumbles across the room, and flops down there like a fool.

In a buckskin shirt that was glazed with dirt, he sat, and I saw him sway;
Then he clutched the keys with his talon hands—my God! but that man could play.

Where you ever out in the Great Alone, when the moon was awful clear,
And the icy mountains hemmed you in with a silence you most could hear;
With only the howl of a timber wolf, and you camped there in the cold,
A half-dead thing in a stark-dead world, clean mad for the muck called gold;
While high overhead, green, yellow and red, the North lights swept in bars?
Then you've a hunch what the music meant—hunger and night and the stars.

The music almost died away—then it burst like a pent-up flood;
And it seemed to say, "Repay, repay," and my eyes were blind with blood.
The thought came back of an ancient wrong and it stung like a frozen lash,
And the lust awoke to kill, to kill—then the music stopped with a crash,
And the stranger turned, and his eyes they burned in a most peculiar way;
In a buckskin shirt that was glazed with dirt he sat, and I saw him sway:
Then his lips went in in a kind of a grin and he spoke and his voice was calm,
And "Boys," says he, "you don't know me, and none of you care a damn;
But I want to state, and my words are straight, and I'll bet my poke they're true,
That one of you is a hound of hell—and that one is Dan McGrew."
Then I ducked my head, and the lights went out; and two guns blazed in the dark,
And a woman screamed, and the lights went up, and two men lay stiff and stark.
Pitched on his head, and pumped full of lead, was Dangerous Dan McGrew,
While the man from the creeks lay clutched to the breast of the Lady that's known as Lou.

This play will be shown at the Majestic today. *281-t1

FOR BETTER ROADS

Pennsylvania is to have better roads and at the lowest possible cost to the people, if Gov. Martin G. Brumbaugh has his way.

Gov. Brumbaugh recognizes that the people have turned anxiously to the Republican party for relief in the nation and the state. He feels that the Democrats have been unable to provide for the business interests of the country, that the Democratic party has failed to restore public confidence as promised, and that the hope of the people for the much needed relief from vexatious legislation must come from the Republicans. He is therefore determined to put the full force of his administration at the service of the state and its best interests.

Gov. Brumbaugh has found that the people of the state want better roads and want them constructed with a proper regard for efficiency and economy. He has given personal attention to the highway department and he has also determined to go personally into every section of the commonwealth to see for himself the needs of the various communities in the way of road building as well as to see that his ideas on road construction are followed by those attached to the highway department.

The governor will make an earnest effort to interest the voters of the state in the proposed amendment to the state constitution which will enable the state to borrow money liberally for road building purposes. He proposes to have enacted during his administration that particular constitutional amendment. The governor contends that the improved highways will be about the best and probably the most important work of his administration.

THE COMMUNITY CHURCH

A community church was dedicated at Rush Hill, Mo., says the Kansas City Star. The citizens of the village united in putting up the building. All denominations are to be represented in it, instead of in separate small and struggling churches

Community churches have now been established in several centers of the middle west. The movement is becoming stronger each year. It is bound to spread, for it is the fruit of a developing spirit of efficiency and brotherhood that is taking possession of the churches.

There is a wide field for this sort of consolidation. In numerous towns several weak churches are being supported where united efforts could maintain one strong and vigorous organization. Gradually it may be expected the community church will supplant these ineffective churches, to the very great advantage of all the members. Rush Hill is in the line of progress.

DENIED FAIR PLAY WOMEN ARE GAME

"We'll Win Without Watchers!" New Slogan of the Suffragists

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD

Defeat of Watchers Bill Rallies Thousands of Fair-minded Citizens to the Cause.

Harrisburg, June 1.—The defeat of the bill authorizing the women suffragists to have watchers at the polls next November, when the suffrage amendment to the State Constitution is voted on, has turned out to be a bigger blow to the interests that naturally oppose suffrage than to the women who want the vote. Not only has it made the women more determined than ever to win, but it has rallied to their standard thousands of fair-minded citizens who resent the underhanded efforts of the antis to prevent the women from getting a square deal at the polls.

The attitude of the suffragists themselves on the defeat of the measure that had been introduced solely to assure an honest vote on their amendment is significant.

"We'll win without watchers!" is their new slogan, and judging from the stimulus which it has given their local workers in all parts of the State, it is going to be a winning one.

But that is not all. The women do not intend to let the hundred and one subsidized representatives of the interests that oppose suffrage and that voted against the Watchers Bill go unpunished. They have already sent out an open letter addressed to the constituents of each of these representatives, and it has been published broadcast in these legislators' home districts.

In this letter, which is signed by Mrs. Frank M. Roessing, President of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association, the suffragists do not mince words. They call attention to the fact that members of the same well-organized lobby that defeated the Local Option bill were on hand to lobby against the Watchers Bill. Then they put it right up to the constituents of the men who voted against their bill to find out if it was the liquor lobby's activities that inspired negative votes or the assumption that the majority of the men in Pennsylvania are averse to giving their womenfolk a square deal.

"Of course," the letter states, "if your Representative merely carried out your personal wishes when they voted against a measure framed to minimize the chances of fraud at the polls we have no criticism to make. But we do not believe that such is the case. We are convinced that deep in the heart of every real man is a love of fair play. Therefore, we feel confident that your Representatives did not truly represent you when they voted against this measure, and we would appreciate it if you would let the public know that no man who betrays the principles you stand for can expect your vote as a candidate for re-election to the Legislature."

Commenting upon the effect which the defeat of the Watchers Bill has had upon the Pennsylvania suffrage campaign, Miss Hannah J. Patterson, State Chairman of the Woman Suffrage Party, said:

"It has welded our loyal workers together even more firmly and has created an interest in suffrage among thousands of men who up to the present time have nor given more than a passing thought to the subject. These men have had their eyes opened to the type of people who are anxious to defeat us by fair means or foul, and it has made them think.

"They realize now that there must be more need for woman suffrage than they appreciated—also that women's votes can be made to accomplish real good. Otherwise, why would the vicious interests go to such pains to prevent a fair verdict of the people on the question of suffrage? Unwittingly, the men who defeated our Watchers Bill have done us a big favor. They have placed the subject of woman suffrage in a new light—a light, incidentally, that cannot fail to attract the attention of every decent citizen who believes in clean politics."

REMEMBER

Men were at one time disenfranchised

The gradual extension of the suffrage is implied in the principle of our form of government.

Men have fought and bled and died for the right of self-government.

Women already vote in twelve States of the Union and Alaska, as well as Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Iceland, Finland, Australia and New Zealand.

None of the evils predicted by anti-suffragists have ever come about where women vote.

Love, marriage and motherhood have prospered in these places.

No equal suffrage State or country has ever tried to repeal woman suffrage

The men of Pennsylvania will have their first chance this November to give the women of the State justice by giving them the ballot.

What Is He?

Lives there a man who would say to his mother, his wife or his sister, "You are too ignorant to vote," and then go to the polls and there associate and vote the same ticket with men that he would be ashamed to take home and introduce to his family?—J. G. Stewart.

Message No. 5

To the Business Men of Charleroi

The prosperity of a city is in direct proportion to the local pride. Where local pride runs high, prosperity has a firm foothold. Such a town is a good place to live and do business in.

Paint helps to a remarkable degree in spreading an impression of prosperity throughout a community. It gives a fresh, new, inviting look wherever it is used. Municipal buildings, stores and homes feel its good effects. Growing business is bound to be one of the direct results of a liberal use of paint, not from any magic in the paint, but because of the pride which is stimulated.

Dutch Boy Beymer-Bauman Armstrong-McKelvy White Lead

mixed with Dutch Boy linseed oil is the paint of quality and always has been. Lasting and economical. Sold by all good paint dealers. Get in touch with your dealer today.

Will Create Precedent.

The first instance in Europe of the use of a submarine cable for the transportation of high voltage electric power current will be in connection with the project for supplying practically all of Denmark with cheap electricity for both light and power, generated by waterpower in Sweden. When completed, power sufficient to provide for an area of 500 square miles will be brought across three high pressure cables laid under the sound at the entrance of the Baltic sea. The electricity is to be generated with power from the Swedish river Lagan supplemented with the use of locomotive coal.

May Abandon Seal Hunting

Unless some plan can be devised within a month whereby the skins and oil of the hair seal can be utilized by the British government for war supplies, there is a strong possibility that the seal hunt, which has been an important factor in the commerce of Newfoundland for many years, will be abandoned for the coming season. Because of industrial depression and the war, none of last year's catch of 285,000 has been disposed of, and about half of the great catch of 372,000 skins in 1913 remains in the hands of brokers in London and New York.

COAL WILL BE SUPERSEDED

Little Doubt That Oil Is to Be the Future Naval Fuel—Has Many Advantages.

The introduction of the use of oil as fuel upon our battleships is really the most important development in naval engineering since the advent of steam. The naval authorities have been experimenting with oil as fuel for the last fifty years, and its advantages have long been recognized, but its use has been restricted because of doubts as to the existence of a sufficient supply. It is now known, however, that enough oil exists in the public lands of California alone to supply the needs of the United States navy for a century at least.

Oil has a higher fuel value in producing steam than coal, giving a greater evaporation of water, both per pound of fuel and per square foot of heating surface. More important, however, is the fact that the fuel can be taken on board a great deal more rapidly without manual labor, and without interruption of the ship's routine. Coaling has always been a long, laborious and inconvenient process, dreaded by every branch of the service afloat.

With oil as fuel, the amount of smoke may be controlled, there are no cinders and no delays or loss of speed due to the necessity of bringing coal from a remote bunker, or to the exhaustion of the stokers. It makes possible a considerable reduction in the crew, and makes less weight and space necessary for boilers. These savings in weight have made possible the use of heavier armor on the battleships Nevada and Oklahoma.

CATCHING UP WITH CHINA

Western World Has Adopted System Long Popular in Great Empire of the Orient.

Gradually, very gradually, civilization is catching up with the Chinese. The University of California has established a new profession—that of keeping people well. Those who adopt this calling will go into the world and earn fat fees by not letting folks fall ill. Sickness will mean starvation to the practitioners: a healthy populace will make them rich.

In China the doctors have never looked to the sick for business. Only while their patients were well could the physicians charge for services rendered. When a patron fell ill the doctor's income shrunk; when recovered the convalescent resumed feeing his medical adviser.

It is a good scheme, evidently, or we of the wiser world would not have taken up with it after having so many thousands of years to investigate its workings. In time, perhaps, all the wisdom of the Celestials will become ours by adoption.—St. Joseph Gazette.

Rubber Armor Plate!

If the present war has proved anything it has proved the inadequacy of the protection afforded by armor plate covering the under-water vital parts of a ship. The armor does not extend sufficiently far below the water line to assure complete protection when the vessel is rolling, and in this respect a suggestion put forward by a writer in Popular Science Sittings might be worth serious consideration. Describing an experiment made in 1860 on the recoiling strength of rubber, he says that a piece of rubber two inches thick and a foot square was placed under a steam hammer and a six-inch round shot was placed on it. The hammer fell with tremendous force and broke the shot to pieces, the rubber remaining elastic and unimpaired. Results from great explosive force on rubber flooring and buffers have shown that beyond fusing by heat the rubber remained uninjured, so apparently rubber would make a ship more shot-proof than armor plate.

The Mines of Spain.

More than one-third of the quicksilver produced in the world last year came from the mines of Spain. Those mines were worked centuries before Christ, and they seem good for centuries more. Other quicksilver supplies are discovered exploited for a time, and exhausted, but no bottom has been found to the veins of Spanish cinnabar.

Many high authorities hold that other mineral resources of Spain are quite as splendid in proportion as her supremacy in the production of mercury. Spanish iron ore is sometimes shipped to the United States, yet the mines are said to be worked in very clumsy, ineffective fashion. It is even claimed that the coal supplies of the peninsula are superior to those of any other part of the continent, but these, again, are managed in a careless, indolent, unscientific manner.

Scotch Eels.

When so many British trawlers have been commandeered and so few of the others can venture out why is there not a more systematic slaughter of freshwater eels and of the conger eels that lurk about the masonry of old piers and other breakwaters? The rivers of Scotland swarm with eels, which are almost completely neglected as a means of making money by the natives, who themselves do not eat eels. Fish from the sea will grow scarcer and scarcer, consequently dearer and dearer, as the war goes on, and we cannot afford to ignore our eels. The board of agriculture and fisheries may presently have something to say on the matter. Meanwhile the opening for individual enterprise is obvious.

Mrs. M. E. Richards, 501 Seventh St., Charleroi, says: "For years I had attacks of kidney diseases. Just a short time ago, I was suffering from severe pains in my back that often shot up and down my spine and into my head. I also had chills and spots floated before my eyes. Grand Auction Land Sale

Wilson Heights---North Charleroi

Known as the W. W Piper Farm.

SATURDAY, JUNE 12th--- 10 A. M. to 1:30 P. M.

To the People of Charleroi and All the Neighboring Towns and Surrounding Country:

Ever since Charleroi has appeared on the map people throughout this section have longed for an out-in-the-open suburban development, where they can have homes and health and pure air and all the pleasures embraced in a life not restrained by walled-up conditions of living in the heart of town.

These home-seekers and people of this section generally will be pleased to learn that an opportunity for securing large suburban building lots and small farms will be afforded them on Saturday, June 12th, on Wilson Heights, known as the W. W. Piper farm, North Charleroi.

This beautiful farm has been plotted in lots ranging from 40 x 100 and 40 x 120 feet, to one-fourth, one-half and full acres, and will be sold at auction, on the premises, to the highest bidders, and on the most reasonable terms of payment.

This will give the buyers the right of fixing their own prices, and at the same time affords the house-renters to secure homes for their families with the money now going to the landlords.

Wilson Heights, as readers of The Mail are well aware, is admirably located for an ideal home-settlement, adjoining North Charleroi, right at Bridge 2 stop on the trolley line to Pittsburgh, Monessen, Belle Vernon and all points up the Monongahela valley, directly west across the river from Monessen; with gas, electric and telephone lines passing through the lot plan; intersected by improved state highway; convenient and readily accessible to all the surrounding towns, industries, stores, schools, churches, &c. The air is pure and clear, free from poisonous fumes of the factories, and the water is abundant and wholesome---everything that the heart could desire for a happy home.

The sale of these splendid home-sites will be conducted all day, Saturday, June 12th, commencing at 10 a m. and 1:30 p. m., and the large lots and small farms will be conducted with a rush. It will be bargain day in real estate and those who make selections first will get the choicest sites. Even though the knowledge of this sale has just been made public, people are already visiting the grounds and looking the lots over. Here is your opportunity to make handsome profits on a sure investment, to buy where your dollars will multiply to get a home for your family with the money now going for rent. Profits on building lots is easier money than wages of toil. Use your head a little and you will not have to work so hard with your hands. This is the best opportunity available about Charleroi. Be wise and take advantage of it. The helping hand is reaching out to you from Wilson Heights. This plan of lots is in the 5c cent carfare limit.

The sale of this property will be conducted by T. R. Winsheimer, the rapid-fire suburban real estate developer, of Morgantown, West Virginia, and under his management success is assured. Mr. Winsheimer's specialty is auction lot sales, in which he is recognized as expert and high-class. He operates extensively all over the country and his efficiency is the result of years of experience in the business.

As an attraction at this sale one lot will be given away. Everybody is cordially invited to this sale and a big crowd is expected.
